Well all the fuse is good except the engine control fuse on the engine bay. I replaced it and it blow maybe 5-10 miles of driving. The last thing I remember doing is installing my radio. But still even when I disconnect the radio harness it still blew. But why should the engine control fuse blow, shouldn't it be the audio fuse??

My altima died while driving it. I had it towed back to my house and noticed the check engine light would not come on and the car would not start. I have tracked down a fuse that was blown in the fuse box under the hood by the water jug. It was fuse number 51. If I replace the fuse, it will blow out again if I attempt to start the vehicle.
